Distinguished Guests, Ladies and Gentlemen

Good Afternoon

- I. Am pleased to join you today during the closing ceremony of this important forum that over the last

- II. The Constitution of Kenya provides an effective guide on development of targeted interventions towards youth empowerment including access to education and employment as well as opportunities to associate and protection from harmful cultural practices and exploitation.

III. The Youth population of 18-35 years, constitute approximately 75% of the Kenya population. They therefore constitute a huge catchment area for employment across sectors and therefore provide a solid opportunity for consolidating gains associated with the demographic dividends.

- IV. It is therefore imperative that we all heed the call to invest in young people’s health, education and overall wellbeing to allow exploration of the full potential inherent in the implicit demographic opportunities.
- V. I have no doubt in my mind that the outcome of this conference will go a long way in providing a solid platform for consolidating priorities and opportunities with a view to preparing responsive and inclusive interventions for youth development. I note that the conference has also produced admirable and innovative approaches to job creation.

VI. I would like to take this opportunity to brief you on the process of developing the Fourth Medium Term Plan of the Vision 2030 that is ongoing and is the responsibility of the State Department for Planning.

VII. The Fourth Medium Term Plan 2023-2027 (MTP IV) of the Kenya Vision 2030 is the second-last medium term plan of the Kenya Vision 2030 blue print. VIII. The Fourth MTP (2023-2027) will set the momentum for transition to the next long term development

XII. The preparation of the MTP IV comes against the backdrop of among other challenges, negative effects of Covid-19 pandemic that have adversely affected key economic activities and disrupted the social interactions within the country and globally. The MTP IV will therefore be expected to prioritize implementation of economic recovery strategies to reposition the economy on a steady and sustainable growth trajectory.

XIII. It will be prepared in line with the Constitution of Kenya 2010, that calls for a consultative process. Various segments of the population will be engaged at different stages during the MTP IV preparation process at both the National and County level forums, parliamentary committees and other forums which will culminate in dissemination of the MTP IV document to all counties scheduled for February to March 2023. These consultations will aim at ensuring inclusiveness and consensus building on identification of policies, programs and projects for implementation over the medium term period.

XIV. MTP IV will illuminate on the macroeconomic performance and the achievements realized during the implementation of the Third MTP 2018-2022, in laying down the foundations and enablers for economic growth. middle-income country providing a high quality of life to all its citizens by the year 2030 anchored on the Economic, Social and Political pillars of the Vision 2030.

- XV. Further, the MTP IV will seek to review challenges encountered, lessons learnt and emerging issues in the implementation process of the policies programs, projects, and institutional reforms envisaged in MTP III as well as assessing the risks and mitigation measures that must be taken on board to improve on efficiency and effectiveness of delivery of MTP IV aspirations.

XVI. Youth issues will continue to receive prominence in the MTPIV. It may be recalled that, during the International Conference for Population and Development (ICPD 25) held in Nairobi in November, 2021, Kenya made 17 commitments. One of the commitments (Commitment no.8) focusses on harnessing the demographic dividend through investments in health and citizens wellbeing; education and skills training; employment creation and entrepreneurship; and rights, governance and empowerment of young people.
